Explanation about Kyoto University Gender Equality Promotion Center Nursery Room for Sick Children and Request for Your Understanding and Cooperation in Conducting a Prior Medical Examination

Kyoto University Gender Equality Promotion Center Nursery Room for Sick Children ("Kyoto University Nursery Room for Sick Children") is a day care facility to provide care for sick or convalescent children of female Kyoto University faculty, staff and students, so that they do not have to take leave from work to care for their children who cannot attend their regular day care facility, kindergarten or elementary school.

Kyoto University Nursery Room for Sick Children provides nursery care for sick children, regardless of whether they are ill or convalescent, but will not admit children with an infectious disease or if they are in a critical condition. Accordingly, we ask parents to have their child examined by a physician in advance, to check whether the child is suffering from an infectious disease or serious illness. A prior medical examination is also important to ensure that the child care workers understand the health status of the child and can accordingly give appropriate care.

Kyoto University Nursery Room for Sick Children requires a physician's report to be submitted on the day of visit to the Room and it must include the results of the prior medical examination of the child. You are kindly requested to fill in the Physician's Report form (another sheet) that will be brought to you by the child's parent or guardian.

I sincerely request that you understand the purpose of Kyoto University Nursery Room for Sick Children and the importance of conducting the prior medical examination, as stated above, and that you take time to complete the Physician's Report.

Sincerely,

Soichi ADACHI,
Manager
